PRICE THREE CENTS.

DEPUTIES FIGHT DUEL.

French Statesmen Settle Differences.

ONE IS WOUNDED IN THE ARM

Monsieur Thomson Resents a Newspaper Article, Written by Deputy Mirman, a Radical Socialist, Who Has Figured in Other Affairs.

Paris, June 6.—Monsieur Thomson and Monsieur Mirman, members of the chamber of deputies fought a duel growing out of an article written by the latter, attacking Monsieur Thomson. Monsieur Mirman was slightly wounded in the forearm. The latter is a Radical Socialist, and gained considerable notoriety through his protest against being confined in barracks as a conscript during the election of a president to succeed Casimir-Périer.

MAGOWAN SKELETON

Is Dragged Out of the Closet Again at Trenton.

Trenton, N. J., June 7.—People residing in the neighborhood of ex-Mayor Frank A. Magowan's colonial mansion were awakened about midnight by a disturbance in which the ex-mayor, his two boys and a policeman were the central figures.

Mrs. Magowan and her children live next door to the house occupied by the ex-mayor and Mrs. Barnes. It is claimed that Magowan and Mrs. Barnes walked past the house where Mrs. Magowan and her children reside an unusual number of times. The boys believed it was done with the deliberate purpose of annoying their mother.

They began to shout at Magowan and told him to take Mrs. Barnes into the house, and it is said, made uncomplimentary remarks about her. Magowan walked into the yard of his former wife's house after the boys. They ran into the house. Meanwhile Mrs. Magowan sent for a policeman and ordered the arrest of the ex-mayor. The latter ordered the policeman to arrest the boys, but the policeman declined to do either without a warrant. The matter was soon quieted down by Magowan leaving. During the day there has been some talk of warrants being issued, but police headquarters it was said no steps had been taken as yet by either side.

The Jaures Incident.

Paris, June 7.—The scene in the chamber of deputies during the Jaures incident, when M. Brisson, president of the chamber, suspended the sitting and sent for the military guard to remove M. Richard, the Socialist deputy, who had referred to some of his colleagues as "police spies," was one of unwanted scandal and violence. M. Brisson, after business was resumed, declined to hear Jaures, who interpellated the government on what he called an "attempt to muzzle a deputy," basing his refusal on the ground that no notice of interpellation had been given.

Killed His Mary.

Cairo, June 7.—Richard Caldwell of Memphis, shot and killed Mary Jenkins, because he was jealous of the favors she had bestowed on others. Immediately after the shooting he fled to a lumber yard back of town, where he was found two hours later by the officers. He was ordered out with some difficulty, when he opened fire on the officers. His first shot passed through the wrist of Deputy Sheriff George W. Moore, who returned the fire, killing Caldwell instantly. Moore was acquitted of all blame.

Farewell to Cadets.

West Point, N. Y., June 7.—The chapel of the West Point military academy was completely filled by the corps of cadets, the board of visitors, the officers, and ladies and families of the cadets at the customary hour for religious worship, to listen to the farewell discourse of Rev. Herbert Chapman to the graduating class.

Springfield, O., June 7.—Coroner Schaefer has investigated the mysterious disappearance of one of the infants of Miss Esther Banion, to whom twins were born, and found the missing child buried in a little pine box at the side of the porch of the house, where the girl lives. Death was from natural causes.

GREAT CROWDS

Are Expected at the Nashville Exposition on Ohio Day.

Nashville, Tenn., June 7.—The week of the exposition just ended has been most satisfactory from every point of view and decidedly satisfactory in attendance. Large numbers of people from distant states were here every day, and the coming week will undoubtedly show a great increase not only in local attendance and from all parts of the state but from other states. This week will end with the visit of President McKinley upon Ohio and Cincinnati day and will have numerous special features prior to the grand finale.

The program for Friday, Ohio day, the day President McKinley arrives, has been arranged. In brief, it is as follows: At 10:30 the president and party will be escorted to the centennial grounds; Governor Bushnell and staff and Governor Taylor and staff will accompany them. The escort will include United States troops and Tennessee troops.

At 11 o'clock in the auditorium, addresses of welcome will be delivered by President Thomas, Mayor McCarthy and Governor Taylor. Responses will be made by Senator Clark, of Ohio; Governor Bushnell, and the president.

TARIFF STILL ON DECK.

Sugar Schedule Will Consume Considerable Time.

THE ILLNESS OF ALDRICH.

Final Action Will Be Postponed Until the Rhode Island Statesman Is Again Able to Take Part in Proceedings.

Washington, June 7.—While the tariff will continue the general topic of discussion in the senate during the present week, there is no certainty as to what portion of it will receive especial attention. This uncertainty is due largely to the difficulty of determining when the sugar schedule will be taken up.

It is so generally understood that this schedule will consume considerable time that there is no effort to outline beyond it the course of proceeding.

The wood schedule will afford a brief respite Monday before reaching the sugar question, as that subject was left undisposed of when the senate adjourned on Saturday.

Senator Allen probably will enter the motion to strike out the entire paragraph relating to sawed lumber, and the motion may lead to other speech than his own.

Whether the sugar schedule will be taken up in order is still undetermined. There are many differences of opinion on the subject, but the prevailing desire is to get the schedule out of the way as soon as possible.

This is the case on both sides of the chamber, but it is especially true of the Republicans, as the responsibility for action rests there. Still there is a desire among Republican senators that there should be absolute agreement among themselves on the rates of this schedule before entering upon its discussion in the senate, and it is realized that this is difficult of attainment, without further exchange of opinions than has yet been permitted.

There is no doubt in any event of a postponement until Senator Aldrich's return to the senate. He is still confined to his room, but is expected to be out early in the week. That the Hawaiian treaty will be protected by the finance committee is considered settled, but a caucus may be necessary to determine whether other changes should be made. Senator Pettigrew has decided definitely to offer his antitrust amendment in connection with this schedule, but beyond the fact that it will lead to a number of speeches, there is no certainty as to its course or its fate.

House Will Adjourn.

Washington, June 7.—The house has no work ahead of it this week, and it is the intention of the majority leaders to adjourn until Thursday and from Thursday until Monday. Mr. Simpson and other members of the minority doubtless will essay the usual manœuvres with the purpose of embarrassing the Republicans, but in the present condition of the house they easily can be overborne.

Map of Venezuelan Boundary.

Washington, June 7.—The maps of the Orinoco-Susquibo region of South America compiled for the use of the Venezuelan boundary commission have been published in atlas form. There are 76 maps in all of which 15 are new and made especially for the commission use, while the remaining 61 are fac-simile reproductions of old ones, selected from the large number brought to the attention of the commission.

Heister Schlaeter Dead.

El Paso, Tex., June 7.—Francis Heister, who claimed to perform miraculous cures by divine power, was recently found dead in the foothills of Sierra Madre, 35 miles southwest of Sosa Grande, in the state of Chihuahua, Mexico. He has been fasting and apparently starved to death. While in Denver, from August 22 to November 13, 1895, about 200,000 people visited Heister to receive treatment.

Small Attendance.

Washington, June 7.—Sunday base ball was inaugurated in this vicinity by a game between the Clevelands, of the National league and a picked nine. The contest occurred at Riverside park, a resort, about two miles below Alexandria, Va. It resulted in a victory for the league club by a score of 12 to 1. The attendance was very small, only about 600 persons being present.

Collision at Sea.

London, June 7.—The steamers Bittern and Ystroom, both bound for Amsterdam, collided in the Thames. The Ystroom foundered, two of her passengers being drowned. The remainder of passengers and her crew were taken on board the Bittern, which was damaged. The Bittern's second officers and carpenter were drowned.

Ohio Steamer Launched.

Cincinnati, June 7.—The steamer Queen City was launched successfully. She is to ply in the trade between Cincinnati and Pittsburg. She is 236 feet long and has a carrying capacity of 1,400 tons. Her draft is 30 inches.

UNTIMELY DEATHS.

Three Firemen Killed During a Fire at San Francisco.

San Francisco, Cal., June 7.—A fire in the southeastern part of the city at noon cost three firemen their lives, and entailed a property loss of $100,000.

Killed.

John Mahoney of chemical engine No. 5.

Frank Keller, steward of hose cart, No. 2.

James Hallinan, driver of truck No. 1.

The fire started mysteriously in the four story brick building owned by Schroth and Westerfield and leased to the Standard Biscuit company.

Work in the factory ceased for the week at 5:30, and so far as known the only occupants of the building were John Erwin, the bookkeeper and W. Cook, the cashier, who were at work in the office.

Cook departed at 11, and Erwin was still occupied with his books at noon when a fireman rushed in conveying the information that the building was ablaze in the upper stories.

After the first alarm the fire chief turned in a second and general alarm. A stiff breeze fanned the fire within the brick walls, and it was soon apparent that the interior of the structure would be entirely destroyed.

Adjacent to the brick factory was a row of wood buildings, including a branch of the Salvation barracks and the southern police station. These seemed doomed. Fortunately the police station contained only three prisoners, but the terrified yell and appeals of the trio to be liberated caused intense excitement among the gathering crowds. They were transferred to the central station.

Committees of prominent citizens and business men will meet and take charge of the party at the respective places visited and will direct the movements of the visitors in seeing the manufacturers, business establishments and other places of interest.

The party will leave here for Baltimore on special cars attached to the regular train on the Baltimore & Ohio railroad. Monday and Tuesday will be spent in Baltimore and Washington and on Wednesday the will arrive at New York.

AMERICANS IN CUBA.

SAFER WITH ONE OF OUR WARSHIPS IN HAVANA HARBOR.

Presence of an American Cruiser Not to Be Construed as Attempted Intimidation—Nothing Desired but the Safety of American Citizens.

The sending of a warship to Havana could not be construed as covering the purpose of irritating or intimidating the Spanish, nor to provoke them into hostilities, the sole purpose being to protect the lives of our consuls and of our citizens.

It will be remembered that shortly before the inauguration of President McKinley it was announced that the then president elect had in mind the stationing of a naval vessel at Havana. That statement was made upon adequate information.

Since coming to Washington the president has had opportunity to examine the reports made by our consuls in Cuba during the last six months, and in these months and in these reports he finds ample justification for carrying out of his original intention. More than one of our consuls has reported that his life has been threatened by the excited Spanish, and when the president gave the members of the foreign relations committee of the senate recently certain information supplied by our consuls in Cuba it was with the condition that the names of those officials be not made public for fear of violence to their persons.

The president believes there is ample justification for the dispatch of a war vessel to Havana. Things have come to such a pass that the consular representatives of the United States dare not have their reports to the government made public with their names attached. To do so provokes the danger of violence to their persons. It is high time some means were adopted for the protection of our consuls and private citizens.

During the ten years' war General Grant kept warships in Havana harbor nearly all the time. We have had our naval vessels in Honolulu, in Rio Janeiro, in Valparaiso, and later in the ports of Turkey. It is a well recognized principle that a nation may station warships in the ports of friendly countries for this purpose without offense.

It may be necessary to keep a warship at Havana for some time to come. If any violence be done to an American consul, the commander of this vessel will have instructions to seek reparation. If an American citizen be arrested, the commander of the ship will be instructed to demand that the citizen be brought on board within a given time.

President McKinley has given much time to late to the examination of the reports of our consular agents. These reports were made by consuls appointed by the Cleveland administration, and some of them have been on file for many months. The president has been astounded at the condition of affairs in Cuba revealed by these official statements. As a result of his examination he has decided it is his duty to make a prompt movement for relief of American citizens placed in situations of great distress by General Weyler's cruel order. This duty the president has performed, with the prompt and unanimous co-operation of congress.

"But the measures taken do not go to the heart of the question, they do not solve the problem, and the president is thoroughly convinced it is his duty to solve it. No half hearted measures, no recognition of belligerency, no gentle mediation or use of good offices, will suffice. Something more decisive, more forcible, will be needed if anything is to be accomplished. Just what that shall be, just what form it will be best to give to the proposals, the president has not yet determined. It is too important and delicate a matter to rush into without careful consideration."—Walter Wellman in Chicago Times-Herald.

Only 6 cents.

Six cents is all Lulu Green will get from her mother's estate. It is not a large estate, to be sure—only a few hundred dollars insurance—but one heir is cut off, as formally as if it had been thousands.

Mrs. Mary Green died recently at her home on the top floor of No. 220 West Nineteenth street, New York. Three of her daughters—Nellie, Sadie and Mary—stayed with her through her illness, but Lulu, the eldest, went away. She is employed and earns enough to keep herself, and while her mother lay dying she was living in Twenty-eighth street alone.

Mrs. Green's will has been filed for probate in the surrogate's office. The estate will be divided among Nellie, Sadie and Mary.—Exchange.

Saved Under Difficulties.

Miss Carrie Parker, the only colored schoolgirl in Vermilion county, Ind., has graduated from the Clinton high school after four years of discouragement. She was practically ostracized by her fellow pupils during her entire course, and on two occasions, when she resented insults, she was expelled from the school, not because she was in the wrong, but, as the trustees said, "to keep peace in the family." She made a good record despite her discouragement, and triumphed last night over all others in her class when she delivered her graduating address.

Miss Parker's father is a laborer. She will apply for a place in the mission field and devote her life to teaching the beaten.

WILL STUDY INDIANS.

An Expedition to the Pacific slope in the Interest of Anthropology.

One of the series of expeditions of the American Museum of Natural History, for which the president, Morris K. Jesup, has provided a fund, started recently for an anthropological investigation along the northern Pacific slope. The expedition is under the direction of Dr. Franz Boas, who is the curator of the anthropological section of the museum. Dr. Boas is accompanied by Dr. Livingston Farrand of Columbia university.

The expedition will be located in British Columbia, where about 30 Indian dialects are spoken. Dr. Boas and Dr. Farrand will mingle with the Indians and endeavor to secure all the data in regard to their habits of life and the dialects. The Indians will be studied from an anatomical standpoint. They will be measured and weighed. As far as possible the scientists will endeavor to gain a knowledge of the dialects.

Harland A. Smith, who is associated with Dr. Boas in the anthropological section of the museum, has also started for British Columbia. His work will be devoted to a search for archaeological specimens in the southern part of British Columbia. Throughout British Columbia there will be three or four parties of exploration under the direction of Dr. Boas. The expectation is that a large quantity of valuable material will be gathered to enrich the museum.—New York Herald.

HIS RARE HONESTY.

A Veteran Sends Back a Portion of the Pension Money Awarded Him.

If Diogenes were to visit Hot Springs, S. D., carry his lamp with him and hunt around for one Albert C. Hopkins, a veteran of the civil war, he would find the honest man for whom he looked in vain during his term of years on earth.

It has been reserved for Mr. Hopkins to surprise the pension office by sending back to that establishment a draft for $82.40, which he claims was paid him as a part of his pension claim without authority of law. Private Hopkins served in the Union army in Company I, Second Wisconsin volunteer infantry. His letter to the commissioner of pensions follows:

"Since every man naturally and justly assumes to be the chief justice of the supreme court for himself, and since in a general way this judgment must usually be affirmed when it is against himself, I assume the privilege and duty of interpreting the pension laws in my own case thus:

"I am entitled to full pension of $12 per month under the law of 1890 (from my first application in August, 1890) for one year thereafter while I was on crutches and disabled for manual labor. This amounts to $96. Also to $6 per month thereafter to March, 1895, amounting to $86; total, $182. Amount received from the pension office, $264.40. Draft inclosed to balance, less expenses of returning same, $82.40."—Washington Star.

CAN MAKE GOLD.

Mr. Price Insists That He Can Manufacture the Precious Metal.

E. C. Price, whose claim to a process for creating gold and silver from chemically pure antimony and other base metals has been under investigation by a commission of mint experts, with only negative results, has made application to the commissioner of patents for another test.

In his request he asserts that the commission did not follow his directions in important particulars. Ingredients, he alleges, were used which were inimical to his process, and that he himself produced gold from chemically pure antimony, sulphur and iron after the commissioners had failed with the same materials, and that they then declared that by whatever process gold and silver might be obtained from any other materials it simply showed that gold and silver were in the metals before the process was used.—Exchange.

Bad Bird's Blunder.

On a recent afternoon A. S. Cooley of Canandaigua, N. Y., found in his yard a sparrow hanging by the neck from the limb of a cherry tree. The bird had evidently attempted to rob the nest of a robin in the tree, and while effecting an entrance to the nest from the underside accidentally pushed its head through a noose formed of horsehair which had been utilized in the construction of the nest. From appearances the sparrow, in withdrawing its head from the nest, had tightened the noose and was hanged.—Rochester Post-Express.

A Feature of the Jubilee.

During the jubilee celebration it is proposed to illuminate the tower of the houses of parliament with a crown of electric lights on which shall be the letters "F. D.", meaning defender of the faith.

TOO MUCH NICOTINE.

MORE THAN TWO OUNCES OF POISON IN A MAN'S ARM.

An Inveterate Smoker's Strange Malady. His System Was Unable to Throw Off the Poisonous Matter—Now That He Is Cured He Despises the Weed.

One of the most curious and inexplicable cases known to medicine and surgery has just come to light in Chicago. The case is that of Peter Menker, the keeper of a grocery store in West Lake street. He is more than 55 years of age and is the possessor of a magnificent physique. Up to six months ago he had been one of the healthiest of men. He was vigorous and enjoyed excellent sports. There was none more robust looking. He was up mornings by the break of day and had an appetite at breakfast time that would have done credit to an army mule driver.

Along in February, however, he began to droop. His spirits fell. He did not laugh as was his wont. His appetite was a dismal failure. The only thing that he seemed to enjoy was his pipe of tobacco and his rocking chair. These were his constant companions. He could not sleep. His friends advised the family to call in a doctor. He protested.

Along about the 1st of March a rising having the semblance of a carbuncle appeared on his right hand at its juncture anteriorly with the arm just over the radial artery. It seemed as if it might be erysipelas, so Dr. J. W. Wild thought. At all events, the sore was treated as such.

Weeks went along, and the patient grew worse instead of better. Poultices were applied, but they acted as irritants. Menker was finally compelled to go to his bed. There he lay in a semi-somnolent state for days. Medicines did not revive him nor lotions allay the throbbing pain caused by the gradually growing sore on his arm. It eventually grew darker and harder and more sensitive. The man grew more nervous until he was almost on the verge of delirium. More medical talent was consulted. The rising did not show signs of ripening.

It was finally agreed to apply the lance, and this was done. The diseased part was then the size of a walnut, almost as hard and just as black. The gristle was penetrated, and in the syphonic sac was found more than two ounces of a dark, molasses like, looking fluid. It had a sickening smell that penetrated the entire house. Upon examination it was discovered to be nicotine—nicotine almost as poisonous as that found at the bottom of a much used tobacco pipe. The wound was thoroughly drained and antisepsis were applied. The blackish looking fluid was preserved and tested. But few traces of blood matter were discovered, but the nicotine, in all of its deadly effects, was plainly apparent. Fifteen drops given to a cat resulted in the cat's death.

Within 24 hours Mr. Menker began to improve. A week afterward and he was about his business. He has now regained his former vigor. But he despises tobacco in all its forms. He cannot bear to smell its fumes. A pipe is more nauseating than asafetida. It is revolting to all his nerves, and he believes that were he to attempt to use it in any form again it would throw him into paroxysms. He is the best cured tobacco user that ever lived and is gaining flesh since his rescue at the rate of a half pound a day. Still, he sells the weed, but in doing so he gives a word of warning to each of his purchasers. He had been using it incessantly for more than 30 years in all its various forms.

There is a great diversity of opinion among physicians as to the genuineness of the fluid taken from the sack. Some contend that it must have passed through the heart in order to have lodgment over the radial artery, and that, of course, a drop or so of nicotine would paralyze that organ and produce instant death. But Mr. Menker, his friends and his doctors declare that it is nicotine. "If it isn't, then what is it?" they ask.—Exchange.

Lightning's Queer Freak.

At Walla Walla, Wash., during a recent thunderstorm, Claude Clodius, 17 years old, returning from fishing, was struck by lightning while climbing a fence, knocked senseless and seriously injured, his body being burned in streaks, as if done by a hot gridiron.

A peculiar freak of the electric fluid was that it wrapped the fish line around the boy's neck in such a way as to choke him, and it had to be cut to save his life. The boy was found, apparently lifeless, partly paralyzed, with his clothes on fire and blood oozing from his mouth, nose and ears. His condition is precarious.—San Francisco Chronicle.

A Battle of Bulls.

A terrific battle took place recently between six bulls in the pasture of C. Lynne, near Lexington. Two Jersey bulls of Lynne's began it, and when they fought Baluan, Judge Mulligan's bull, broke through the fence and began goring both. Lieutenant Governor Alfred's bull broke in from the other side and hooked right and left. Then two stray bulls came along and took a hand, or rather a horn. The owners tried to separate the animals, but were chased off, and the fight went on all night. In the morning one stray bull was dead and the others were terribly injured and may die.—Philadelphia Times.

A Governor's Big Title.

Elisha Dyer of Providence, father of Elisha Dyer Jr., the well known cotton leader of New York city, was inaugurated governor recently.

The officer who made the announcement to the people proclaimed him "governor, captain general and commander in chief of the state of Rhode Island and Providence plantation" for a year ensuing."

He at once spoke louder.—Pearson's Weekly.

Matrimonial Divining Test.

I cannot recall ever having seen in my school days any matrimonial divining tests save one. It was this: A key was placed in the Bible at the second chapter of Solomon's Song, verses 16 and 17, and the book tied firmly together, with the handle of the key left beyond the edges of the leaves. The tips of the little finger of the charm tester and of a friend were placed under the side of the key, and then they "tried the alphabet" with the verses above named—that is, they began thus: "A—My beloved is mine, and I am his. He feedeth among the lilies. Until the day break, and the shadows flee away, turn, my beloved," etc. At the word "turn" the Bible was supposed to turn around if A were the first letter of the lover's name. Thus could the entire name be spelled out. I am sure I was not more than 8 years old when I saw this charm tried, but I distinctly recall the uncanny chill I felt when the Bible slowly turned and fell from the fingers of the girls who were wont to pursue the ghost stories which haunted the columns of his paper. His astral presence was considered the most manifest to the faithful. The dead editor's spirit brought great joy to the hearts of the believers who were wont to pursue the ghost stories which haunted the columns of his paper. His presence was considered the most distinguished visitor since Shakespeare, and the good souls who congregate at Howard's hall, expecting "the touch of a vanished hand, the sound of a voice that is still," have not yet ceased to speak reverently of the visitation.

I have since learned that when we thus "turned the Bible" we were practicing theurgy—one of the 53 varieties of necromancy enumerated in an old book—two others being pyromancy, charms through the use of fire, and botomancy, through the use of herbs and flowers.—Alice Morse Earle in Lippincott's.

After the Battle.

A Washington lawyer's life is not entirely without agreeable features, although possibly the first syllable of that word is not always spelled f-e-e.

Recently one had as a client a very quiet, unobtrusive young market man who owned and conducted a market garden somewhere beyond the city limits. It seems that the young fellow had some trouble with his father-in-law, a meddlesome old man who had always imposed on the husbands of his daughters, and after it was over he came to consult the attorney, whom he had known for a long time.

"Um-um," said the attorney thoughtfully, after hearing part of the story. "Your father-in-law charged you with treating your wife harshly!"

"Yes, sir," was the brief answer.

"What did you do?"

"To her?"

"No. To him."

"I denied the charges from start to finish, and so did she."

"What did he do then?"

"Called me a liar."

"What did you do?"

"Hit him one—just one, sir."

"What did he do then?"

"Nothing, sir. The doctors done the rest."—Washington Star.

Chocolate.

In preparing chocolate, a paste should first be made. The proportion in making chocolate is one square of chocolate to one tablespoonful of hot water. This is stirred smooth in the double boiler, chafing dish or whatever utensil is used for making it, and then the milk or milk and water added. The proportion of half water to the chocolate makes it more digestible. Allow one cup or one-half pint or liquid to the square of chocolate. The water is first added to the paste and well cooked. There is not the oiliness to the chocolate, and it is much more delicate if the milk is not cooked after being poured in, but merely allowed to become thoroughly hot. No scum arises on the chocolate when the paste is first made. The paste is convenient. It can be made and kept on hand, packed in a small china vessel for two or three days and used when desired. The chocolate should be well beaten with an egg beater, the dish being placed on the back of the range, if convenient, before serving. To give additional nourishment, the white or the yolk and white of an egg well beaten can be stirred into the chocolate.—New York Times.

Maps as Ear Trumpets.

It has long been considered that a person can be more politely insulted in Paris than in any city in the world. Mrs. Addie Belden-Gage of New York, who seems to be about 40 years old, is causing excitement in Mount Clemens, Mich.

She is stopping at a leading hotel and has surprised all by her vocal powers. While in an alleged hypnotic state she sings in Italian and French songs written 100 years ago, although she declares she cannot speak the languages.

She goes into a hypnotic state when playing a piano and is then, she says, under the control of Clotilde, a great vocalist who died a century ago. She developed this power ten years ago. She does not give public exhibitions. Her husband is Omar F. Gage, a business man of New York, who is said to be a relative of Lyman T. Gage, secretary of the treasury.

Mrs. Gage does not appear to be eccentric in ordinary affairs.—Exchange.

ASTRAL BODY OF JOSEPH B. McCULLAGH EXPLAINS A MYSTERY.

He Did Not Commit Suicide—Death Was Due to a Sudden Fit of Delirium—Cleared the Matter Up to Sooth the Feelings of Friends.

M. Goettler, a hatter at 1260 South Broadway, St. Louis, tells a strange story concerning the alleged appearance of the astral body of the late Joseph B. McCullagh, who was one of the most prominent journalists of the country. According to Mr. Goettler, the shade of the departed recently visited the temple of spirits in Howard's hall and made itself manifest to the faithful. The dead editor's spirit brought great joy to the hearts of the believers who were wont to pursue the ghost stories which haunted the columns of his paper. His presence was considered the most manifest to the faithful. The dead editor's spirit brought great joy to the hearts of the believers who were wont to pursue the ghost stories which haunted the columns of his paper.

I have since learned that when we thus "turned the Bible" we were practicing theurgy—one of the 53 varieties of necromancy enumerated in an old book—two others being pyromancy, charms through the use of fire, and botomancy, through the use of herbs and flowers.—Alice Morse Earle in Lippincott's.

THE MINISTERS

Are Asked for Information They Should be Able to Furnish.

Editor of Times-Democrat:
Dear Sir—I am a Christian and I believe the bible to be a divine revelation from God to man.

In visiting the different churches of this city I often hear the clergy give utterance to expressions which lead the people to believe that they are in possession of an immortal soul. I would like to ask them through the columns of your paper to quote one passage from the bible to substantiate their theory.

Yours respectfully,
O. J. WATSON,
114 east Spring street, Lima, O.

Lima Camp No. 3290, M. W. A.

Regular meeting of Lima Camp No. 3290, M. W. A., on Monday evening, June 7th, in Gazette hall. Christian Brookins will be present to wander in the forest, and will need help. At the close of the meeting refreshments, the nature of which is unknown, will be served. Come out.

She Has Lost Interest.

"I thought I should be so happy when commencement day approached," said the sweet girl who is about to be graduated, but really I take very little interest in it."

"What is the matter? You stand high in your class, do you not?"

"Oh, yes; I am valedictorian. But the faculty has decided that the girls are to dress simply and all alike, and I had such excellent ideas for my graduation gown."

To the G. A. B. Going to Chillicothe.

Dear Sir and Comrade:

For your information, and for the comrades and their friends who are going to the state encampment of the Grand Army of the Republic, to be held at Chillicothe June 15th, 16th and 17th, we are pleased to inform you that the C. H. & D. will run a special train, leaving Toledo Tuesday morning, June 15th, at 6:55, making all the stops from Toledo to Dayton, thence without stopping, direct to Chillicothe, arriving in ample time for the opening of the encampment and the W. R. C. convention, both of which open at 2:30 p.m. of the 15th.

The commander-in-chief, General Thaddeus S. Clarkson, of Omaha, Nebraska, and the national president of the W. R. C., Mrs. Agnes Hitt, of Indianapolis, Indiana, go to Chillicothe on this train starting from Toledo, and all comrades, their ladies and friends, will have an opportunity to visit enroute with these prominent officers. All that is necessary is to consult with your nearest C. H. & D. agent as to the arrival at his station of this train, or write direct to J. Cory Winans, Toledo, Ohio, who will furnish the information. All local papers will have notices of this train.

Remember, tickets are on sale June 14th, 15th and 16th, good returning until the 19th; also that the C. H. & D. is the only road owning their own line to Chillicothe. This enables every comrade and their friends to see the Ohio Soldiers' and Sailors' Orphan Home, at Xenia—this home all the comrades and their friends are interested in.

Through cars both ways without change. D. G. Edwards, Passenger Traffic Manager.

Chamberlain's Cough Remedy the Best and Most Popular.

"We sell more of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy than of all others combined," write Messrs. Kerr & Sons, druggists, of Mars, Pa. They also say: "The sale of it is something phenomenal. We have sold two gross this winter, selling as high as six bottles in one morning to as many different customers. This remedy has proved particularly successful in chronic affections. Our customers invariably pronounce it the best there can find, and we know of no case where it has failed to give satisfaction." For sale at 25 and 50 cents per bottle by Melville, the druggist, old postoffice corner, C. W. Heister, 58 public square.

La Pearl's Show.

La Pearl's circus gave two performances yesterday; there being a fair attendance in the afternoon, and hundreds were turned away in the evening; but those who were present saw one of the most entertaining series of performances seen in this city for years. In fact it is a revival of the old one ring circus that we have been wishing so much to see. The performances are always under one's eyes. You see it all and miss none; something impossible with the modern big show.—Dubuque, Iowa, Times, Aug. 4, '96.

DANGER IN SODA.

SERIOUS RESULTS SOMETIMES FOLLOW ITS EXCESSIVE USE.

Common Soda is all right in its place and indispensable in the kitchen and for cooking and washing purposes, but it was never intended for a medicine, and people who use it as such will some day regret it.

We refer to the common use of soda to relieve heartburn or sour stomach, a habit which thousands of people practice almost daily, and one which is fraught with danger; moreover, the soda only gives temporary relief, and in the end, the stomach trouble gets worse and worse.

The soda acts as a mechanical irritant to the walls of the stomach and bowels and cases are on record where it accumulated in the intestines, causing death by inflammation or peritonitis.

Dr. Harland recommends as the safest and sweetest cure for sour stomach (acid dyspepsia) an excellent preparation sold by druggists under the name of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets. These tablets are large 20 grains lozenges, very pleasant to taste and contain the natural acids, peptones and digestive elements essential to good digestion, and when taken after meals, they digest the food perfectly and promptly, before it has time to ferment, sour and poison the blood and nervous system.

Dr. Werther states that he invariably uses Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets in all cases of stomach derangements and finds them a certain cure, not only for stomach, but, by promptly digesting the food, they create a healthy appetite, increase flesh and strengthen the action of the heart and liver. They are not a cathartic, but intended only for stomach diseases and weaknesses, and will be found reliable in any stomach trouble except cancer of the stomach.

All druggists sell Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets at 50cts. per package.

A little book describing all forms of stomach weakness and their cure mailed free by addressing the Stuart Co., of Marshall, Mich.

Frightening the Dogs.

"Don't you think," said Senor Tawktasta to Senor Bulfite, "that in view of the extensive preparations for war in the United States, Spain had better not maintain a truculent attitude?"

"What preparations for war has America made?"

"The details are lacking, but the preparations must be on a very large scale, for I notice that the governor of the single state of Georgia has just commissioned 81 colonels. Think of the number of soldiers that means, and remember that Georgia is only one state out of 45."

Frail Lives Cut Short.

Infants cutting their teeth during hot weather often have their frail life cut short by that deadly summer complaint, diarrhoea and dysentery. Mothers, protect and save your babies' lives by the early use of Dr. John W. Bull's Baby Syrup, a facilitator of teething, and an unfailing remedy for baby complaints. "I can not speak too highly of Dr. Bull's Baby Syrup. It is the best I have ever used, and I would not be without it. I would advise all mothers to try it and see for themselves what a wonderful medicine it is for the ailments of babies. Mrs. H. McFerron, Lenzburg, Ill." Dr. Bull's Baby Syrup is sold by all dealers for 25 cents.

Taking nothing else, but insist on getting Dr. John W. Bull's Baby Syrup.

At the Commencement.

"Do you see that young girl in the front row? Notice what a plain dress she wears. That's the valedictorian. Don't you feel sorry for her?"

"But they say her standing was very high."

"Yes, but that makes her dress all the more conspicuous."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Baby Screamed One Hour. One Doe Brought Smiles.

MASILLON, O., Nov. 6, '95.—Hand Medicine Co.—"I cheerfully bear witness to the virtues of Dr. Hand's Colic Cure. Our baby, now nearly four months old, suffered much from colic. After having screamed with pain for over an hour we came upon Dr. Hand's Colic Cure and gave her a dose of it. In five minutes after taking she is all smiles, and at night we all sleep. Mrs. F. L. Traphagen, 46 W. Charles St." Ali druggists 25c.

MRS. GAUMER

I send a card of thanks, acknowledging the kind services.

Urbana, O., June 1.—Mrs. T. M. Gaumer, who was assaulted by Mitchell, then nearly lynched by the mob last Friday, issued a card of thanks to her friends, for their sympathy during her affliction.

The following is Mrs. Gaumer's card in full:

With a voice broken and sad I desire to thank all of you for your kind words of sympathy and encouragement during the very trials of our recent affliction. Not only are we thankful for the personal calls of sympathy at our door, for the flowers and cards and messages from a distance. Almost from beyond the ocean have come to us living words of sympathy. My cross is heavy on this Sabbath day, and the noble men and women of Urbana, who rallied to our assistance, who held up my hands that I may once more take up the cares and burden of life. The race surely is not long; then when it is done will come "rest, sweet rest." It is true it took hard praying for strength to reveal the whole truth of this most compelling outline. Death seemed preferable. May our loving heavenly Father help us to lay off the shackles of formality and end these limited spirits who have so grandly come to us in the hour of our bitter trials, that we may go forth in health and happiness, for good to all.

Our good works more humbly, but nobly, than before, that the stripes which we have borne may remind us evermore of the one who knew nothing else while on earth but sorrow and affliction. God bless our noble men and women of this Christian land of ours, our governor and adjutant-general, our mayor and our city and county officials and citizens of every walk of life, who not only so nobly gave sympathy but faced the bayonets that the foulest stain upon our city's most sacred page might be blotted out, that their houses,

A FREIGHT WRECK.

Of the nine cars wrecked six were loaded with freight, but fortunately the freight was not greatly damaged, although the cars were almost totally demolished. Engine 35 had its front end mashed in and was otherwise considerably damaged.

The wreck train was sent from this city in charge of conductor John Darby and engineer John Terbution, and although traffic was not delayed to any great extent, the wreck was not cleared until noon Sunday.

Last summer, while attending court at Uniontown, says D. B. Paton, prominent druggist of Fayette City, Pa., "three witnesses were suffering from diarrhea. I gave each a dose of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhea's Remedy and it gave immediate relief. On the way home one of my neighbors was taken with a severe cramp in the stomach and was suffering with intense pains. I gave him a dose of this remedy and within five minutes the pain had ceased. The remedy is a favorite here. I know of many who are never without it. I always take it with me when going away from home." For sale by Melville, the druggist, mid postoffice corner, C. W. Helster, 58 public square.

Mr. G. A. Stillson, a merchant of Tampa, Fla., writes, August 10th, 1891: "Foley's Kidney Cure is meeting with wonderful success. It has cured some cases here that physicians pronounced incurable. I myself am able to testify to its merits. My face to day is a living picture of health, and Foley's Kidney Cure has made it such. I had suffered twenty-seven years with the disease, and today I feel ten years younger than I did one year ago. I can obtain some wonderful certificates of its medical qualities." H. F. ONE SMALL BRIDGE.

It Is Causing Trouble Between Two Towns in the Northwest.

A ten years fight between Duluth and Superior, Wis., two rival towns at the western end of Lake Superior, has found its way into the senate.

Just now these towns are distinct and separate. Between them flows a little arm of Lake Superior called by courtesy

St. Louis river, and it is as famous in the annals of the northwest as was the Rubicon in the time of Caesar. As long as that stream of water remains unbridged, just so long will Duluth and Superior be known as Superior.

But in the dreadful days to come, when a bridge shall span the river, it is likely that Superior will be nothing but a suburb of Duluth. This makes the doughty residents of Superior lie awake at night, distressed with fearful dreams, while they stand on the shore of the dividing stream and hurl defiance to their all encroaching rival.

The bill authorizing the bridge passed congress some time ago, but now more time is asked and some changes in the charter are suggested. The material, furnished by Pennsylvania steel men, is lying at the site of the bridge, and Senator Quay daily presses the enactment of the additional legislation, but Senator Vilas, representing the Superiors, stands guard and objects, so that the bridge is literally suspended in mid air.—Washington Post.

FAT SHEEDY'S LAMENT

"Show me a gambler with a bank account. Show me one with a bit of real estate. You can't do it. Fat Sheedy hasn't got any of it. If he had, would he be roaming around the most obscure corners of the earth? No sir, I can't gamble here, and I must gamble to live. I make my living at it, and a poor living it is. If I had money, I wouldn't scour the earth for games to play. I'd stay right here." Thus says Fat Sheedy, the greatest gambler of them all.—Boston Herald.

YORKTOWN MANUSCRIPTS.

Papers That Relate to the Siege and Surrender of the Town.

Curiously enough, after 115 years, a collection of manuscripts relating to the siege of Yorktown has recently turned up in Paris. These comprise a contemporary copy of Count de Rochambeau's own diary from the time the French armies left the Hudson, the 15th of August, to the surrender of Yorktown, on the 19th of October, 1781. Accompanying this, written by a different hand, but inclosed in the same cover, is a diary of the siege by one of the engineer officers and a most beautifully executed manuscript map in colors of Yorktown and vicinity.

The siege and surrender of Yorktown were one of the most important events in the history of America. Many accounts by different eyewitnesses are extant, manuscripts and printed perhaps the most valuable of all being the diary of George Washington, the original manuscript of which is at the state department at Washington. After Washington, perhaps the most trustworthy account would be that of Count de Rochambeau. It is known that he was very careful to keep copies of his correspondence, both for himself and for the department of war in France, but his diary of the Yorktown campaign was never published until it was included in Doniol's great compilation of documents relating to the gaining of American independence, published about ten years ago, under the auspices of the French government, and even to this day it has never been printed, except greatly abridged, in English. A small part of it appeared in the Gazette de France a few days after the news of the surrender reached Paris, and this abridgment was translated and published in English in the Pennsylvania Gazette and in Almon's Remembrances shortly after.

The day after the surrender Rochambeau sent a copy of his journal to the hand of the Duke de Lauzun to the French minister of war, Segur, and a week later duplicate dispatches were sent in another ship, the Count de Deux-Ponts being the bearer. These two officers had shown the most courage in the siege and were thus rewarded. The existence is not known of either of these original dispatches.

A copy of Rochambeau's journal is in the French archives in Paris, and another, Rochambeau's own, probably, is in the library of the department of state in Washington, procured with the Rochambeau papers bought by the United States government from the heirs of Count de Rochambeau. It may be, and indeed, it seems quite probable, that this series of manuscripts which has been recently discovered and which has been secured by Messrs. Dodd, Mead & Co. of New York city are the original papers which were carried over by Count de Deux-Ponts. They are not, however, in his autograph, but in that of some unknown person, probably a clerk.

The map which accompanies these two manuscripts is on a large scale and most beautifully drawn by an expert, no doubt one of the French engineers, and it seems probable that it was drawn to accompany official dispatches to the French government. There is no duplicate of it among the many maps in the Rochambeau collection.—St. Louis Republic.

Genghis Khan's Dominions.

Mrs. Mary Sheats Roberts, in her series of "Historic Dwarfs" in St. Nicholas, writes of Casan, who was in the service of Genghis Khan. Mrs. Roberts says:

After the great Mongolian had conquered China, Persia and all central Asia his empire became one of the most formidable ever established. It extended from the Pacific ocean on the east to the river Dnieper in European Russia and was a wider realm than Egyptian, Greek or Roman conqueror ever knew. The kings of Armenia and Georgia, the emirs of Persia, the grand dukes of Russia and numerous other potentates were compelled to pay tribute to Genghis Khan, and they were all obliged to make the long journey to Karakorum in person or by their representatives.

This town, the capital of the largest empire that ever existed, was little more than a city of tents. It afterward became the residence of the famous Kublai Khan, as Marco Polo tells us, but every vestige of it has disappeared.

Genghis Khan at last retired from active service to lead a quiet life in the enjoyment of the wealth he had acquired at the expense of so much toil and blood. The numerous khans and generals were commanded to return, and they came back incumbered with the spoils of war. They all assembled on a vast plain some 20 miles in extent, and, according to one historian, even this great field could scarcely contain all the tents of the countless hosts. The emperor's quarters alone were six miles around. An enormous white tent capable of containing 2,000 people was spread over his throne, on which was carefully placed the bit of black carpet used at his coronation.

A Comparison.

"No," said Mr. Cunroox pensively, "it isn't the amount of time that a thing takes that regulates its importance."

"What makes you think of that?" inquired his wife.

"Our daughter. When graduation day comes, it'll only take her 15 or 20 minutes to stand up and inform the public about 'The Inconsistency of Modern Thought and the Ultimate Destiny of the Human Race,' but it'll take her half an hour or more to make up her mind as to what kind of syrup she wants in her soda water."—Washington Star.

At Least One Other.

"When I was first married, I thought my wife was the only woman on earth."

"How do you feel about it now?"

"Well, there's one cook."—Chicago Record.

MONEY MAKING.

Munyon Teaches You to Doctor Yourself.

"It is not necessary to call a physician every time you have a headache or a pain in the body and pay him several dollars for counting your pulse and listening to your breathing, at your doctor's office," says Prof. Munyon. "Neither is it wise to neglect symptoms that may indicate the beginning of serious illness. The symptoms of most diseases are so plain that you know what you have. Get the proper Munyon Home Remedy from some druggist, take it once and cure yourself before disease gets the best of you."—Mostly 25 cents a bottle.

G. Shawl, Thirty-third and Broadway, Bay City, Mich., says: "I suffered very severely from Neuralgia, caused by catching cold. I was sick for six weeks and lost 15 pounds. I doctored with a physician here for five weeks, but he was unable to do me any good. I began taking Munyon's Neuralgia Cure. The first dose never failed in a short time. I was completely cured. A half bottle of Munyon's Kidney Cure also cured me of Kidney trouble."

Where you are in doubt, a personal letter to Prof. Munyon, 1,003 Arch St., Philadelphia, Pa., will be answered with free medical advice for any disease.

A Straggler.

General Horace Porter, in The Century, tells an amusing story of the explosion of the Petersburg mine. It seems that a prisoner who had been dug out of the crater was carried to one of the field hospitals. Although his eyes were bunged and his face covered with bruisures, he was in a very amiable frame of mind. "After this," he said, "I will be the most unpopular man in my regiment. See, I appeared to get started a little earlier than the other boys that had taken passage with me aboard that volcano, and as I was comin' down I met the rest of 'em a-goin' up, and they looked as if they had kind o' soured on me and yelled after me, 'Straggler!'"

She Never Kissed.

"Treckon if I wuns to ketch my daughter kissin' of a man I'd just natchelly eat him into mince meat ground fine," said the old man from the swamps of the Bracken hills.

"Then your daughter won't kiss the boys," ventured a Dover youth with spectacles.

"Well, I reckon not, young man," said the old man gave him a look that gazzled his specs.

"But—ah, you know, some girls—girls are engaged—you know—sometimes kiss their—their—boys—you know—and—it's all right and proper—and!"

The old man looked at him real hard, and, after watching the youth wile like a tobacco leaf in an August sun, thunders out, "Well, my daughter never kissed a livin' man, not even her pap—her a poodle dog, ner a cat, ner nothin'."

"But there's no harm—and why—er—why—er?" stammered the brave youth.

"Well, I reckon the most principalist reason why my daughter never kissed nothin' is that I never had any daughter."

And the thoughtful silence of the young man was so dense that you could hear the price of farm lands drop quietly, drop by drop, while the farm products hanging in the tobacco shed hung by tier.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

A LESSON IN ECONOMICS.

A Young Woman Gives a Young Man Some Valuable Tips.

Again it is a Washington girl. This time she appears as an angel of economy to a young man who needs that kind of angelic administration about as much as any other young man in the Capital City, and she is just as successful as if she were trampling him under her scornful heel and making him feel how utterly helpless man is in conflict with the irresistible.

"By Jove," he was saying, "this sort of thing is simply intolerable!" "What sort of thing?" she inquired, with admirable poise. "Why, I have just had to pay a messenger 40 cents to deliver a note up town for me, and he was gone less than half an hour. It would be cheaper to have hired a cab and horse and driver, and still cheaper to have sent it by mail under a special delivery stamp."

"What was the note?" she asked, womanlike, before she thought.

"A response to an invitation to dinner."

"Forty cents is cheap for a good dinner," she smiled.

"But I couldn't go," he wailed. "It was a declination, and the 40 cents on top of that. Really, though, this messenger service is a rank imposition and should not be tolerated. Twenty-five cents an hour is ample, with short distances at 10 or 15 cents. The convenience is easily worth that, but more than that is plain extortion and the greed of monopolies."

"You have my sympathy. You are the more entitled to it because you don't seem to know any better. Now, why aren't you as bright as a man I know, who hasn't any more money than you have? When he has a note or a book to send to a girl, he doesn't waste 40 cents on a grinding monopoly—oh, that's what it is," she laughed, as she noted his look of surprise, "we have a call in our house, and I am compelled to use it sometimes—but he does a much better thing. He just adds 10 cents to his 40, slips around to the florist's, orders 50 cents' worth of violets sent to the girl, puts the note in with the flowers, and there you are. See? Only 10 cents out, and think how much in—for girls do love flowers, even 50 cents' worth."

The young man began gasping for air. "Or," she went right on, "if it is the season when flowers are more expensive than messenger service, just substitute candy for flowers. You can get something perfectly lovely for 60 cents, and to add a book or pleasant note to it makes it well worth the girl's kindest thought and your 20 cents extra. Now, is the plan clear to your stupid brain?"

Whether it was or not the young woman that very afternoon received a delightful note of thanks for valuable information, accompanied by a 50 cent bunch of violets from a well known florist.—Washington Star.

Precious Meals.

Almost any dish which had to recommend it rarity, costliness, indigestibility, and, to our way of thinking, nastiness, was sure to take with the Roman epicure. And if he were unable to make it costly any other way he would add powdered precious stones or gold dust. Nero dined on one occasion from a peacock which was sprinkled with diamond dust, and specimens of that bird dressed with gold or with crushed pearls were by no means a rarity at the triumphal feasts of the moneyed Romans. A dish of parrots' tongues was a great delicacy. But a dish of parrots' tongues which had been capable, when in their proper place, of framing words, was of almost incalculable value, which increased in a direct ratio with the vocabularies of the defunct parrots.

Another bird for which the Roman epicure was in the habit of paying fabulous prices was the phoenicoptix, which is believed to have been the pheasant. It had its home in the most northerly parts of Scotland and Norway, and as this made it hard to get at the Romans appreciated it all the more and put it in the same rank with ostriches, buzzards and peacocks. The tongues of these birds were specially prepared, together with the brains, and took the place which a hors d'oeuvre would now take.—New York Post.

Her Point of View.

They were discussing the construction of a new gown.

"From a hygienic point of view and merely as a matter of health," suggested the Dressmaker, "I think it should be made!"

The haughty beauty stopped her by a gesture.

"Hygienic point of view!" she exclaimed. "Matter of health! What has that to do with it? When I want health, I will go to a doctor. When I want style, I come to you. We will now eliminate all absurdities and disease this purely from a common sense standpoint. Will it be fashionable and becoming?"

—New York Post.

The Corsican Vendetta.

We often see allusions to the Corsican vendetta, but few people know its real nature and to what a fearful degree of cruelty and bitterness it is carried. The vendetta consists in the practice of taking private vengeance upon those that have shed the blood of one's relatives. It is believed to have originated at the time of the Genoese domination in Corsica, when lawlessness was rampant and justice almost unknown.

As these in authority would not punish crime, individuals took the matter into their own hands, and long oppression, intensified by the cruelty to which we have referred, imbibed a people whose feelings are naturally deep and violent.

This spirit prevails among the women as well as among the men. They sing songs of vengeance over the body of the slain and display his blood stained garments. Sometimes a mother cuts a bloody shred from the dead man's clothing and attaches it to her son's dress, so that he may have a constant reminder of his duty in seeking revenge.

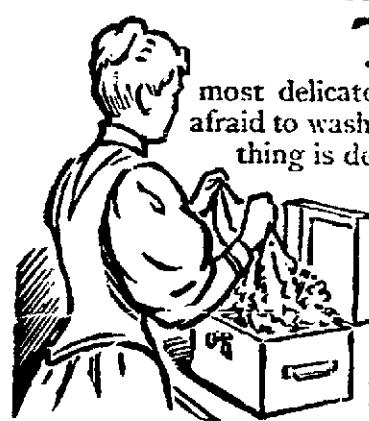

If a murder be committed and the murderer escape, vengeance may be taken upon his relatives, and, as it may be taken whenever an opportunity offers, the relatives live in constant apprehension and surrounded by incessant precautions. Persons that were "under the vendetta" have lived shut up in their houses for 10 or 15 years and have been shot the first time they dared to come out.

The vendetta is made all the more terrible by the force of public opinion, for it is considered in the highest degree dishonorable not to take the revenge called for, and the next of kin who fails to take it without delay falls under the contemptuous reproach of the community.—Philadelphia Times.

Value of Breathing Properly.

Thousands of people die every year because they do not know how to breathe, or, knowing how, they do not fill their lungs as they should. Thin, pale, sallow people should wrap themselves thoroughly if the weather is cool, step out upon an open porch or stand at an open window and fill the lungs moderately full, breathing precisely as one does for the most violent exercise—that is, in short, quick, deep inspirations, each one occupying not over two seconds. Use the muscles to expand the chest with the muscles to its fullest extent, then fill the lungs and hold the breath as long as possible. If the exercise causes pain or giddiness, stop at once.

This is the natural consequence of the action and does no harm, provided it is not continued. After a few minutes, when all unpleasant feeling has passed away, repeat the effort. This may be done two or three times within an hour or so and should be followed up day after day at intervals of from one to several hours. If the patient is very delicate, three times a day is enough for a beginning. In a very short time a marked improvement will be perceived. Another exercise with the lungs is to expand the chest with the muscles to its fullest extent, then fill the lungs and hold the breath as long as possible. This causes a heavy pressure of air on undeveloped and defective lung cells and after a time will open all of the passages of the lungs and create a condition of health to

THUGS LOVED MARY.

She Rejected Both and Delivered Them to the Authorities.

Mary Roman is a very pretty girl, of 16 years, who lives with her parents at Port Reading, near Perth Amboy, N. J. That she is intelligent, too, is proved by the fact that she carefully reads the newspapers. Some time ago she read of a highway robbery in a little Pennsylvania town.

Miss Roman was much interested in this hold up and surprised by its daring. She well remembered the names of the bold robbers—John Harmon and Joseph Chandos. About a month ago two young strangers arrived at Port Reading. They were quiet chaps, well behaved, who said they were seeking employment. In a few days they made acquaintances, and then they were introduced to Miss Roman.

"John Harmon, Joseph Chandos," said the mutual friend.

The girl was vastly surprised, but she made herself believe it impossible that these two quiet young men were the highwaymen of whom she had read. Chandos and Harmon became devoted to her. When one was not in her society, the other was. Each made love to her, each confessed that he had led a wild life and declared she could turn him from it. Finally each told her that he had taken part in that hold up in the little Pennsylvania town.

Miss Mary kept her counsel, waited her opportunity. Chandos and Harmon together called on her on Sunday night. Evidently they had been quarreling, for they were greatly excited.

"You must choose between us," they said to the girl. "One or the other. Come now, which will you marry?"

"Neither," calmly answered Miss Mary.

The two became infuriated. They roughly seized her and threatened her with their fists.

"If you ever dare to say a word about us," they cried, "we'll kill you!" and they hurried from the house.

Miss Mary went at once to Perth Amboy and told Justice Stricker what she knew of Chandos and Harmon. By the advice of the justice she swore out a warrant charging the pair with disorderly conduct. A detective went to Port Reading and arrested them, and they were held for the requisition of the Pennsylvania authorities. —New York Sun.

A WONDERFUL CLIMB.

Dangerous Feat Accomplished by Two Young Men in Wales.

A remarkable climbing feat was performed recently in north Wales, in the first successful ascent of the famous "slanting" gully of Llewellyn, on the eastern side of Snowdon.

This was the gully in which young Mr. Mitchell of Oxford lost his life a few years ago. The present climbers are two brothers, named Abraham, natives of Keswick, in the lake district, where they have acquired their experience. The interest of the climb began at the famous "cave pitch," where Mr. Mitchell fell and where all previous climbers have been turned back.

The "pitch" is 80 or 90 feet high and consists of a cave surmounted by a chimney, gradually narrowing and overhanging at the top, where it is blocked by some rocks which have fallen from above. It took the two climbers a whole hour to surmount this. On the overhanging rock they found scratches and a climbing iron inside the chimney. It was probably from this point that poor Mitchell fell.—London Chronicle.

An ambience was summoned, and an examination showed that the carpenter's bullet had struck the bottom button of Sacco's vest. The bullet had been driven through the clothing to the wearer's body. There the spent force of the shot barely bruised the skin.

But for the bullet Sacco would doubtless have been fatally wounded. Picard was arrested.—New York World.

BOOM IN TOY SOLDIERS.

Factories Are Working Full Time and Unable to Fill Orders.

During the last few weeks a German factory that makes toy lead soldiers has received so many large orders for Turkish and Greek soldiers for next Christmas that it advertises in German papers its inability to accept further orders for delivery within this year.

The makers of toy uniforms, games, pictures and similar toys are also running overtime manufacturing specialties illustrating the war. Even the textile industries are preparing to reap a golden harvest, and material of every imaginable description in oriental and Greek designs is being manufactured in great quantities.

Paris has begun to lead the styles with Greek ideas embodied in costumes, and all other countries will naturally follow the lead of the French capital.—Exchange.

Veritable Strong Box.

The big safe constructed of steel rails which for 10 years was used by the Manhattan Elevated Railway company in the old Arcade building, in Broadway, New York, has been demolished after four days' hard work by ten workmen employed by the safe company that built it. The workmen who were demolishing the building found the job too tough for them. Inside the outside casing of steel rails was a steel cage weighing many tons. The brick and stone base, two stories high, upon which the safe stood, was also removed.

The Prolonged Extra Session.

A congressman was starting home, but his business over, just as the walking delegate came bursting through the door. "Are these things true," the stranger cried. "Which many people say—that you are working overtime without a cent of pay?

"The wrath of many laboring men will surely light on you. If when you ought to take your ease, these tedious tasks you do, I should think, thinning on the wrath. The union may display toward you for working overtime without a cent of pay? To warn your fellow toilers all. It would be well to turn themselves to hastening something. A motion to adjourn. For men who need employment now. May note, to your dismay, without a cent of pay?"

SEPARATED THIRTY YEARS.

Brothers Who Drifted Apart in Boyhood Are Brought Together.

The arrest of Captain Reed of the vessel T. F. Oak's and the publicity attending his trial have been the means of uniting two brothers who were separated for 30 years and had mourned each other as dead.

Frederick W. Frazier, an auctioneer and notary of Ninth avenue, New York, while reading the newspaper account of the trial, saw the name of Samuel Frazier among those of the crew of the vessel who were witnesses against Captain Reed. His brother, who ran away from home to go to sea 30 years ago, was named Samuel, so he determined to interview Sailor Frazier, in the hope that he might be his long absent brother. He visited the Ludlow Street jail, where the sailor is held as a witness, and asked him about his family. A few questions showed that his search had not been in vain.

"Did you have a brother named Frederick?" he asked the sailor.

"Yes," was the answer.

"What did you and the rest of the family call him?"

"We always called him Bill, from his middle name William," replied the sailor.

"I am Bill," said Frederick.

The sailor is 47 years old, while his brother is 61. The sailor said he had traveled all over the world since leaving home. He promised to give up his sailor life and will join his brother as soon as he is released from custody.—New York Sun.

DEMAND FOR FIREARMS.

As Game Diminishes More Guns Are Used. The Matter Explained.

"More rifles and shotguns are turned out from the factories today than ever, although an increasingly large per cent of them are not bought with any view to actual use in the field," said a member of a gunmaking firm recently. "In the case of shotguns, a large per cent are never fired at living targets. Trap shooting, intended originally for the purpose of giving hunters opportunity for practice without going afield, has become a most popular sport in itself and has been adopted by hundreds who never enjoyed the delicious thrill of tumbling a quail in full flight or knocking a squirrel from the limb of some lofty tree."

"The demand for target rifles is also constantly increasing. The gross sales of guns carrying 22 cartridges and intended for short range target practice is in excess of those of larger caliber. So we have the seeming contradiction that the less game there is to kill the greater the popular demand for shooting."

"As target guns as a rule are more finely made and with less regard to cost than those for actual field use, it follows that there is more money in their production, and if all the game in the United States were suddenly swept out of existence the manufacturers of shooting implements would still keep their plants going." —Washington Post.

SAVED BY A BUTTON.

A Bullet Struck the Bit of Metal and Veered From Its Deadly Course.

A tiny metal vest button turned death aside from Ferdinand Sacco of New York one night recently.

Sacco, while in Salino's saloon near his home, met Christian Picard, a carpenter. A dispute arose, and Sacco struck Picard, who pulled a revolver, pressed the muzzle to Sacco's body and fired. The wounded man fell to the ground in agony.

An ambulance was summoned, and an examination showed that the carpenter's bullet had struck the bottom button of Sacco's vest. The bullet had been driven through the clothing to the wearer's body. There the spent force of the shot barely bruised the skin.

But for the bullet Sacco would doubtless have been fatally wounded. Picard was arrested.—New York World.

Surprised the Horse.

A large draft horse belonging to Levi Meekin of Binghamton, N. Y., was knocked unconscious by contact with a live wire on a recent afternoon. It was thought for a time that the animal was dead, and a stoneboat was used to carry the carcass away. As the horse showed signs of life it was removed to a barn and is now recovered.

Hot Flashes.

General Derangement and Nervousness Produced by Stomach Trouble.

Blood Disorder and Nervousness of Years Standing.

From the Commercial, Mattoon, Ill.

Mrs. Christians Foster is a matron of Mattoon, who has recently been restored to the ranks of health after many years of suffering. She gave her statement to a reporter in such concise shape that we print it:

"My name is Christians Foster, I am fifty years of age and a housekeeper. I have lived in Illinois ever since I was twelve years old. During the latter years of my life I have been much afflicted with stomach trouble, blood disorders and nervousness, and these were greatly aggravated about two years ago, when I became subject to most disagreeable hot flashes, (or perhaps I should say "flushes")."

"I seemed to be losing ground all the time. I could not sleep but for a short time, nor being able to obtain any appropriate rest, and I may say I was truly wretched. About one year ago, after reading an advertisement of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People, I determined to get some of them, and did so, beginning to take them strictly according to directions. I had not taken half a box before I experienced relief, and before I had taken four boxes, I was, I may say, well. Of course I am growing old, but that did not account for the bad condition. It was, in my blood did not circulate, and if I pricked my finger while sewing, no blood followed the puncture. All this is different now, thanks to Dr. Williams' Pink Pills."

KNOCK OUT DROPS

Were Given to Pete Hill While He was Intoxicated.

THE VICTIM WAS ROBBED

Forty-two Dollars and a Coat and Vest
—The Robbers Conscript Their Booty
and Succeed in Outwitting the Police.

One of the boldest and most baffling cases of robbery the police have had to deal with for some time was perpetrated in this city between Saturday evening, a week ago, and the following Monday. The victim of the robbery was Peter Hill, a man about 30 years of age, who is employed on the south side by a local pump dealer. He was drugged while under the influence of liquor and, after becoming unconscious, was relieved of $42 in money and a new coat and vest he was wearing. For fear of putting the robbers on their guard, the police and victim of the robbery kept the affair as quiet as possible, but Saturday evening a woman, who was thought to have had some connection with the affair, and who was under the surveillance of the police all last week, left the city and the facts in the case became known.

A week ago Saturday, Hill was seen about town with some friends, and in the evening became intoxicated, and was not seen about town again until the following Monday evening, when he descended to Main street from the rooms occupied by a man and wife named Barr, above Cope's second hand store. The police state that he went to Barr's rooms Saturday evening, but Barr, who was seen by representative of the TIMES-DEMOCRAT, claims that Hill did not come to his place until about 9 o'clock Sunday morning.

When Hill appeared at the police station his coat and vest were missing, and he claimed that he had been robbed also of $42. The police went to work on the case, and Mrs. Nora Osman, who had been staying with the Barrs, was arrested. She spent 24 hours in the women's department at the police station, but claimed to know nothing about the case except that Hill had been drugged with morphine and laudanum and came very near dying. She implicated Barr, but the latter tells an altogether different story and implicates no one in particular. He claims to have learned that Hill was drugged in a saloon on north Main street Saturday night, but cannot account for the disappearance of the victim's coat and vest from his house.

The rooms occupied by Barr were searched but no trace of the coat and vest was found. Barr claims to be an old friend of Hill's and says if he had known Hill had any money he would have taken care of it for him. Hill was in dangerous condition Sunday and Monday and Barr secured medicine for him to save his life.

The police are about ready to admit that they are baffled, for they can find no evidence against anyone.

The Osman woman has been released and has left town, but she informed the police of her whereabouts and can be arrested at any time if they can find that she was implicated in the robbery.

The Sandusky Telegraph has been sold by the receiver to the holder of a chattel mortgage on the property. The publication of the paper will be discontinued. RETRIBUTION

May Overtake Even the Large Corporations

WHO OPPOSE THE PEOPLE.

A Toledo Newspaper Discusses the Park Bond Issue in Lima, and the Pennsylvania Company's Attitude in Relation to It.

Under the heading of "Corporate Ingratitude," in a recent edition of the Toledo Sunday Journal, a writer who signs himself "The Stroller" discusses in the following language the recent action of the Pennsylvania in opposing the park bond issue, which the people of Lima by an overwhelming vote declared they wanted to authorize:

Our sister city of Lima is just going through a bit of an object lesson which throws a sidelight on the manner in which one corporation is willing to damage an entire city, if, by so-doing it can hurt a rival. Some time ago the C. H. & D. road had the misfortune to lose its shops at Lima by fire. The company took its own time to rebuild, and presently rumors began to be heard to the effect that the shops were to be removed to Cincinnati. A delegation of citizens made inquiry, and learned that the company wished to take the shops to the southern terminal, for the purpose of consolidating them with the large shops already at that point. However, the company's officers said, for an amount approximating $100,000, they would be perfectly willing to bring up the Cincinnati shops to Lima, and, rebuilding on the old site, make the shops at Lima the whole thing.

Some time ago Lima bonded itself in an equal sum to secure the shops of the Lake Erie & Western road, and the issue was made and sold. The special legislation by which it was done was pronounced unconstitutional, but that has made no difference to the city. The interest has been paid with considerable prophy, just the same. As the city could not repeat its previous actions for the benefit of the C. H. & D., it was decided to issue $100,000 bonds for park purposes. The amount may have been a trifle more or trifle less, but that makes no difference in the proposition. Some way and somehow, the C. H. & D. road was satisfied, and everything seemed to be going well. Just how park bonds were going to benefit the railroad I am not informed, and, as a matter of fact, I did not court any confidences on the subject.

Now comes the Pennsylvania road on the scene. But first it may be stated that back in Lima's Mud Age, when it was not one quarter the size that it is to-day, it made a greater sacrifice to secure the Pennsylvania road. Some $100,000 were given to bring it through the city, and it was doubtless a good investment. The Pennsylvania road has a short memory for that, however, for it has commenced legal proceedings intended to prevent Lima from disposing of her park bonds, averring that the road's officers believe that the proceeds of the sale of these bonds are to go to the C. H. & D. road. The legislature does not mention anything of the sort. In fact it expressly says that the bonds are to be for parks, "and for no other purpose."

That the big shops of the C. H. & D. will be worth many times their cost, cannot be denied. They would bring some thousand or more workmen, whose bare necessities of life alone would mean heavier freight shipments on every road in the city. The Pennsylvania people claim that they now have an investment of $130,000 in Lima, and, assuming that it is true, the road's share of the special taxes would be a few paltry thousands, extending over some ten years of time. In this connection I am informed that the road has taken advantage of the court's decision in the L. E. W. case, and has never paid a cent of the taxes arising from that special legislation. That being the case, and assuming that the proposed park bonds would also be illegal, the road could again protect itself by an injunction from ever paying its share of the new issue.

In this respect it would have the advantage of the city of Lima, for while she cannot profit by her own wrong act, the individual taxpayer can.

However, I learn that retribution has already reached the road. Prominent shippers have issued orders prohibiting their bases of supplies from shipping over the road showing such marked hoggish tendencies, and as Lima is well supplied with other roads extending east and west, a boycott is comparatively easy. Within the past six weeks, according to a prominent Lima man, the Pennsylvania road has lost shipments equal to the value of the entire proportion of the special tax that would have accrued from the road. More than that, the Pennsylvania's sworn remonstrance has given the assessors a quiet tip, which will not be forgotten.

WERE DEFEATED.

The Bryan-Lima Team Loses the Opening Game.

TWO LIMA MEN INJURED.

Large Attendance and an Interesting Game—Defiance Wins by a Score of Ten to Seven—Other Local Base Ball News.

About eight hundred people witnessed the opening game of the Bryan-Lima base ball team in an interesting contest with the Defiance team at Faurot's park, yesterday afternoon. The Lima team was defeated in a score of ten to seven, but it cannot be truthfully said that the new team is not a good one. Two unfortunate accidents weakened the team before the close of the fourth inning, when the local team was leading in runs.

The Lima team went to the bat first and the Defiance boys showed that they were strong adversaries by putting out the first three men before either reached first base. Before the close of the second half Lima's pitcher, Mackey, had one of his fingers injured so badly that he was compelled to withdraw. He was succeeded by Roger Bresahan, who pitched a winning game, but his support was weak at one or two points, especially in left field, where Dr. Dawson, who is usually one of the strongest players, was in very poor form. In the fourth inning a Defiance runner ran against catcher Jimmy Bresahan at the home plate, injuring him so severely that he too was compelled to retire. Shortstop Covert went behind the bat in his place and Mackey went to short.

Neither side scored until the second half of the third inning, when Defiance got in one run. The local team followed in the first half of the fourth, scoring two runs. In the second half Dawson's slow work in the left field assisted the Defiance team in scoring two more runs. Catcher Bresahan got a put-out to his credit when he was injured. In the fifth the Defiance team got into a wrangle with the umpire and allowed two runners to steal bases. The ball was thrown to third, but the third baseman was telling the umpire "how it happened" and both men scored, making the score 4 to 3 in Lima's favor. The Defiance team rallied in the latter part of the first half, however, by making a brilliant double. In the sixth Lima scored two more runs and no more were made until the second half of the seventh, when some good hitting by the Defiance players, and some bad errors upon the part of the Lima team won four runs for the visitors. Lima squeezed in another run in the eighth, and the Defiance team offset it by scoring three in the second half, and the game ended without any further additions to the score, which was as follows:

Lima 0 0 2 2 2 0 1 0 — 7
Defiance 0 1 2 0 0 4 3 — 10

Hits—Lima 7, Defiance 10. Errors Lima 7, Defiance 5. Batteries—Lima—Mackey, Bresahan, and Bresahan and Covert. Defiance—Herbrand and Roehl. Struck out by Bresahan, 4; by Herbrand, 5. Base on balls—Bresahan 2, Herbrand 1.

The second game, to have been played with Defiance to-day, was called off on account of rain.

Frank Seals, formerly catcher for the Crescents, of the city league, has been signed by manager Starr with the Bryan-Lima team. The team will play at Marion, O., Wednesday and Thursday of this week, and will play St. Marys here next Saturday and Sunday.

The Lima Cycling Club race track will be opened with a club race next Wednesday evening, providing the weather will permit, and the committee has arranged for four races to be run that evening. The track is in excellent condition, and although the riders have had but little training, some hot contests may be anticipated. Admission to the grounds is free and the attendance should be large.

The following are the events for the opening meet:

Jimmy Sanders hasn't recovered entirely from the bad fall he sustained at Findlay on Decoration Day, but will ride at the opening meet.

Ralph White, another new rider, is likely to show many of the scorches his rear wheel before many weeks. His first contest was in the "dish pan" at Findlay on Decoration Day, and he took first place.

Guy Folk has gained a little more speed for this season, and will make the older riders "hump." Earl Bressler and Orley Clutter have had but little, if any, training, but there will be some big surprise parties if they don't finish in one, two order in the open.

The second game, to have been played with Defiance to-day, was called off on account of rain.

Frank Seals, formerly catcher for the Crescents, of the city league, has been signed by manager Starr with the Bryan-Lima team. The team will play at Marion, O., Wednesday and Thursday of this week, and will play St. Marys here next Saturday and Sunday.
